How the Chevrolet and Oldsmobile Cars are made and how they should be operated, will be the subject of a free talking picture at the Opera House on Monday next, February 17 at 8:30 p.m.

Pictures of how the cars are made, from the beginning until they come off the assembly line, will be shown, and many features of the manufacturing and assembling will be of special interest to car owners and others.

Scenes are shown on the testing ground, together with pictures showing how the cars should be operated when they get into the hands of the car owners. There are many good points to be learnt, which will be of benefit to any car owner.

In addition to the main picture there will be an excellent comedy feature which will make a full evening of entertainment and information.

Adsead Garage are sponsoring this feature and invite everyone to attend. It will be interesting to children as well as grown-ups.

Asked to Feed Pheasants.

It has been suggested by a member of the bird committee of the Fish and Game Association that the farmers who have Chinese pheasants around their farms see that the birds get a certain amount of feed during the cold weather.

It is feared that owing to the extremely cold weather the birds will not be able to obtain sufficient feed naturally, and that unless feed is supplied there is likely to be considerable loss among them.

Death Stalks The Highway

A recent announcement of the intention of the Federal department of transportation to conduct a campaign to reduce the annual toll of life and limb taken by automobiles and trucks on the highways and roads of Canada should be welcome news to all who use motor-driven power for business or pleasure. The campaign comes none too soon.

Statistics, just published, reveal that in the United States last year over 36,000 lives were lost by accidents in which automobiles and their drivers were the agents of death, in addition to an appalling number who were injured in greater or lesser degree. This means that, roughly, one out of every 5,555 persons in the U.S.A. perished by the automobile in 1935.

No doubt, when the figures are published, it will be found that the automobile accident death rate in Canada for 1935 was comparable to the American loss after allowing for the difference in population of the two countries and the lesser condensation of traffic. In 1934 the Canadian automobile casualty list totalled 1,108 deaths and 17,998 injured, some slightly.

Had 36,000 lives been snuffed out and hundreds of thousands injured in a single avoidable catastrophe in the United States last year, the nation would have gasped with horror. There would have been demands for investigation and the imposition of safeguards to prevent the possibility of recurrence of such an overwhelming catastrophe, but because these deaths and injuries represent nearly as many individual accidents, distributed throughout the year and scattered over a wide geographical area, it has been customary to dismiss them with a shrug of the shoulder and a comment about "some fool driver", except by the bereaved relatives and friends.

However, there are indications that citizens of the United States are becoming aroused at a condition of affairs which has become a national menace. This growing concern is largely due to efforts of government agents, corporations, police authorities and the newspapers, to acquaint the public with the facts and to drive home the risks which foolhardy and negligent motorists incur by their conduct on the roads.

Already, it is reported, that these efforts, supported by an aroused public consciousness of individual responsibility, is bringing results in sections of the country where intensive campaigns have been staged.

There is reason to assume that similar results can be achieved in Canada, if organizations and individuals will rally to the support of the authorities who have decided that the time has come when an organized effort must be made to minimize the hazards created by recklessness and carelessness.

Recklessness and carelessness, in the final analysis, are the two factors responsible for the great majority of deaths and injuries on the highways on this continent, on either side of the international boundary.

For many of the accidents that occur on country roads and city streets recklessness must be indicted, and very often criminal recklessness. In this category falls the driver who travels at greater speed than road, climatic or traffic conditions warrant, the driver who passes other traffic near the crest of a hill or on a curve, the driver who cuts in front of another too soon and the driver who beats the train to the crossing.

With respect to the last-mentioned hazard it is interesting to note that figures just secured from the records of the board of railway commissioners show that in 1935, there were 242 automobile smash-ups at railroad crossings in Canada, resulting in the death of 114 and injuries to 304, an increase of 28 in the number of similar accidents in 1934, an increase of 33 in the number of deaths and 42 in the number of injured.

Carelessness, too, must be marked up as the contributing factor for a large number of these accidents. It may be carelessness while the wheel is in the hands of the driver on the road. It may be carelessness in parking on a road in the dark with lights out. It may be negligence in failing to regularly and carefully inspect the brakes, the tires and the lighting system or in remedying defects when discovered.

And last but not least there is alcohol. Tests by medical authorities and scientists have demonstrated conclusively that the man carrying only a single drink is not as alert as he is normally without it and the man with several drinks inside him is a positive menace to himself, his passengers and those whom he meets or passes.

Alcohol, according to authorities, "plays a major part in the appalling list of accidents on this continent." This is recognized in the posters which are being prepared for distribution as part of the federal government's campaign to ensure greater safety to the users of Canadian highways, one of which reads: "If you must drink, don't drive. If you must drive, don't drink."

French Query Service

Post Office Charges Different Prices For The Varying Questions

If you happen to be in France and want to know the date America was discovered, how to make good coffee or obtain a quick divorce, just dial S.V.P. on your telephone.

You will be answered by one of the employees of the new "If you please" service, just instituted by George Mandel, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, Paris. At any hour of the day or night, M. Mandel's encyclopaedians will reply. Ordinary questions are answered for a sum of 6 to 15 cents. Twenty to 30 cents are charged for more difficult queries, and special terms are made for a real "poser."

You can also have an errand run by a postoffice cyclist who will deliver you drinks, flowers and anything you like to any address. This will be charged for at the rate of 35 cents in the day and 70 cents at night.

It is expected that plenty of practical jokers will put delicate questions to the new service. But the better the joke, the higher the bill.

Institution For Beggars

Scholars Taught The Correct Places And Manner To Beg

A "beggars' academy" has been discovered by the police of Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, the famous beer city.

An empty barn in the nearby village of Skvrnany was the seat of that institution which had two adult instructors and twenty-six boy "scholars."

The teachers told their pupils how to look miserable and "maimed," and how to behave as "blind" and "dumb-and-deaf". Practical exercises were held, and crutches, bandages and other beggar's appliances were purchased at general prices.

Lessons were also given for writing begging letters, and instructions were given where and how the individual boys had to beg.

The booty was handed over to the teachers, who retained one-half and distributed the other half among the boys.

Strengthening Air Forces

Canada Buying Four New 'Planes For Coastal Defence

The air force defence of Canada is to be strengthened in the spring by four new "protection coastal" aeroplanes ordered by the Canadian government from the Blackburn Aviation Company of England.

The new machines are of the Shark class similar to those supplied to the British naval air service. The machines have an unusual lifting power so as to carry 1,500-pound torpedoes or an equal weight in bombs. They also carry equipment for aerial survey and photography and for artillery spotting and reconnaissance. A supplementary fuel tank slung in the torpedo crutches will give the machines a cruising radius of 1,000 miles.

The machines will be operated by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Cornell University Builds Machine To Produce Rare Agent

At a cost of $5,000 Cornell University has a machine capable of making artificial radium as a substitute for the real stuff, which cost $40,000 a gram.

Completion of this machine, a cyclotron, the second of its kind in existence, was announced at Ithaca, N.Y. The Cornell cyclotron is already in operation.

The original cyclotron, a machine which uses a $200,000 80-ton magnet to produce 10,000,000 to 15,000,000-volt rays was made by Dr. E. A. Lawrence at the University of California.

Depends On Ancestors

The farm flock keeper is rarely if ever justified in keeping hens longer than to the end of the second laying year. But to keep them even that long without a death loss that cuts seriously into profits, it is essential to have flock ancestors that have laid numerous large eggs for three or more years.

A camel cannot go without water longer than three days, without losing strength.

Terror Of The Air

New Torpedo Can Travel Four Times Farther Than Fastest Shell

An aerial torpedo, or flying projectile, which can travel four times the distance of the fastest shell ever known, is one of two inventions, which may revolutionize warfare.

It is the invention of a young man who, working unobtrusively in a laboratory at Queen Mary's College, London, England, is fast becoming recognized as the Marconi of the aeronautical world.

He is Phiroze P. Nazir, aeronautical research student for the Government of India, who although only in his twenties, has already several astonishing inventions to his credit.

His researches make him a person of extraordinary interest to the representatives of other governments, many of which would be glad to know a few of the technical secrets which lie locked up in his brain.

The German Big Bertha could send a shell only fifty miles.

Mr. Nazir claims that his flying projectile, travelling on its own fuel, without a pilot, could travel up to 200 miles at a speed of 300 miles an hour, and could be made to drop at any predetermined distance according to the amount of fuel placed inside.

This weapon would enable an air attack to be staged without warning.

Another far-reaching invention is a system of secret guns concealed in the tail of an aeroplane.

The guns are so arranged that immediately another plane comes behind within firing distance it is shot down before it has time to shoot.

A plane of this description, says Mr. Nazir, could attack a whole squadron and produce chaos among them.

Fire Hazards On Farms Can Be Reduced When Proper Precautions Taken

While every person should enlist in the army of fire preventionists, farmers especially, should be careful to prevent fires, says a bulletin authorized by Hartley D. McNairn, Ontario superintendent of insurance. There is little or no protection on the farm and when a fire starts it is usually a total loss which can never be replaced and the policyholders are the ones who pay for it in the insurance rates assessed. The loss from farm fire is far greater, too, than the amount of the insurance loss; food supplies are lost; farm families are made homeless, and even industries which depend on the farmer for raw material are affected.

Most farm buildings are of wood, constructed with little thought for fire safety. The buildings of an inflammable nature and the hay, grain, straw, food and other materials stored and handled on farms, are an easy prey to fire once it passes the incipient stage.

Statistics show that the majority of farm fires are due to combustible roofs, defective chimneys and heating apparatus, lightning, threshing, lanterns, gasoline, and spontaneous combustion.

Many of the methods which have been successful in preventing or controlling fires in urban districts are equally as effective in preventing fires on the farm. Practically every roof fire is preventable and with a comparatively small outlay of money farm dwellings can be rendered immune from this dangerous hazard.

A farmer cannot be expected to remove good wooden roofs, but when a building needs a new roof, or when new structures are erected on the farm, a fire-resistant roof should be installed.

Where a farmer is financially unable to immediately protect his buildings with fire-resistant roofs, an effective agency against roof fires is the spark arrester, which attached to the chimney stands on guard every hour of the day or night. A ladder and fire extinguisher also afford cheap protection against roof fires.

The loss from stoves, furnaces, pipes and chimneys could be eliminated by proper construction of chimneys, replacing worn-out pipes, and a more careful use of stoves and furnaces. During the winter season, the heating system of the farm home will be under a long strain and defects will become dangerous and destroy the home if not detected and repaired.

To the efficiency of the lightning rod is attributable the marked reduction in losses due to lightning during recent years. In addition to the security and peace of mind afforded by this means of protection, insurance rates are much lower where buildings are rodged.

The introduction of modern machinery on the farm while lightening the burden of the farmer has also tended to increase the fire hazard, particularly at threshing time. The attitude of most farmers that, as they have never had a loss by fire, their property is fire-proof, is shattered by the fact that the losses due to threshing operations constitute five per cent. of the total farm fire loss.

No one should smoke or carry matches around the barn during threshing operations. A liberal supply of water should be kept at hand, a ladder of sufficient height to reach the eave of the barn, at least one dry powder fire extinguisher at the engine and a further supply in the barn. Straw or litter should not be allowed to collect around the engine, which should not be operated without a spark arrester.

A spraying device is now being used effectively by a number of threshers. By means of this equipment a fine spray of water is forced into the blower when threshing. This spray, which does not injure the straw, assists in preventing seeds from blowing, the amount of dust is reduced, barns are cooler when threshing in early fall and the fire hazard is eliminated.

Lanterns used in farm buildings should be hung on hooks or wires. As a precaution against fire should the lantern be knocked down or upset, a simple device may be attached to the stem of the lantern, which will immediately extinguish the flame.

In storing hay if from 3 to 10 pounds of salt per ton is sprinkled on the hay its palatableness is improved and the danger of heating is lessened.

The rural communities which have at their disposal the protection of a rural or urban fire truck are fortunate indeed, as many serious farm fires have been averted through their efforts.

Some of the fire hazards on the farm may exist at all times, while others occur at certain seasons of the year. It is, therefore, necessary for the farmer to be always on the alert that these fire hazards may be recognized, eliminated or guarded against, if he is to prevent the possible destruction of his property from fire.

Housing Plan

Dominion-Wide Scheme To Promote Building And Reduce Unemployment

A Dominion-wide plan to promote building activity and reduce unemployment was studied by leading Montrealers. The plan is being submitted throughout the country by Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior in the former King cabinet, and Mervin Brown, ex-mayor of Medicine Hat, Alta. It is understood to have the approval of Hon. C. A. Dunning, minister of finance.

The plan would make effective use of the Dominion Housing Act and those behind it are united in the "Prosperity Housing Association." Mr. Stewart and Mr. Brown outlined the scheme to Mayor Houde and other prominent citizens who themselves chose a tentative Montreal sub-committee as follows: C. F. Sise, president of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada; J. D. Johnson, president of Canada Cement Limited, and A. B. Purvis, president of Canadian Industries Limited.

Shum clearance is not included in the scheme which is directly concerned with the building of new houses. First item in the program is to establish co-ordinated working committees.

The working committees will seek out prospective homebuilders, submit their plans and take charge of the technical and administrative work. Financing will be done through the Housing Act.

The plan is based on three main foundations: Publicity to include educational work to encourage the building of homes; the technical side, including standards of construction, and the administrative side, co-ordinating the entire movement.

Largest Tree In World

Redwood Capable Of Supplying Lumber For 100 Cottages

Fifteen years of observation, correspondence and collection of data from forestry authorities all over the world convince T. J. Starker, professor of forestry at Oregon State College that he is qualified to name the biggest, oldest and tallest trees in the world.

Fantastic stories of great trees prompted Starker to start his strange quest. Many of the reports proved false, others greatly exaggerated, while many forest giants shrunk in size under investigation.

Sequoia, eucalyptus, fir and cypress were the classification of trees receiving the most publicity as to size.

The tallest tree in the world, according to this investigator, is a redwood on North Dyerville Flat in Humboldt state park in Northern California. It is 364 feet high. The largest living thing, in terms of wood volume, is the General Sherman tree, also in California, a big tree which contains 600,120 board feet, enough lumber to build more than 100 good, substantial, five-room cottages.

"Women in Paris are now wearing coats of banana skins," says a fashion writer. So for that matter are bananas.

Lightning Does Repeat

Experimenter Says It May Strike Same Spot 40 Times

A bit of information tending to "debunk" one of the oldest and most popular beliefs was contributed by Karl B. McEachron, high voltage experimenter, during a visit to Denver, Colorado.

Lightning, he said, does strike more than once in the same place. In fact it sometimes hits the same spot as many as 40 times. It all happens so fast, though, that to man it appears as one stroke, he asserted in explaining the "multiple stroke."

McEachron gave several scientifically sound hints on how to avoid being struck by lightning bolts. He listed the following "don'ts" to remember during an electrical storm:

Don't stand under a tree.
Don't sit on the radiator in your home or office.

Don't sit in the bath tub.

Don't use the telephone if you live in the country because lightning arresting wires are not under ground as they are in most large cities.

Don't handle electrical appliances.

Don't stand in front of a fireplace.

Pressure may blow out the bricks.

Pressure, McEachron explained, is responsible for much of the damage that accompanies a lightning stroke. When a tree is struck, he said, pressure is so great that something similar to an explosion occurs.

A Remarkable Pawn Shop

Just Closed In London After 125 Years' Business

Britain's most famous pawnshop, the old Nautical House, in Limehouse, has just been closed after 125 years' business. Seafarers of all nations knew this shop. It is said that in 1846, Charles Dickens sat there on a high stool for four days gathering material for an article on pawnshops. Many queer stories of London's Chinatown lie behind its closed shutters, on which in scarcely discernible lettering can still be read the announcement: "The Old Established House for Sextants, Ship Chronometers, Marine Glasses, Guns, Revolvers, and Munitions."

Nevada now has an automobile for every 2.9 inhabitants. It marks a rise in Father's importance. So often in car statistics he figures as 5.

Principles Of Good Farming Were Known And Practiced From Time Of Early Romans

Universities, other seats of learning, literary societies, poetry groups, and lovers of the classics the world over are this year celebrating the two thousandth anniversary of the birth of the great Roman poet, Horace—born 65 B.C., died 8 B.C.

With the possible exception of the period between 530 B.C. and 430 B.C., in the days of Greece, when 14 of the world's most illustrious persons lived, it is no doubt safe to say that no one hundred years in the world's history over produced such a galaxy of men of genius as did Rome during the time from 99 B.C. to the year 1 of our Christian era.

During this period, Horace was born and wrote his immortal Odes; again, curiously enough fourteen men of supreme genius, this time Romans, enriched the world with their great talents. Poets, prose writers, agriculturists, historians, law makers, orators, commanders, and statesmen. The action and writing of these men in this single century have profoundly affected the whole course of the world's history. Horace, Virgil, Varro, Ovid, Cicero, Julius Caesar, Seneca, Hortensius, Livy, Rufus, Lucretius, Sallust, and the Emperor Augustus.

Considering that the Republic and the Empire of Rome lasted for approximately one thousand years, it seems astonishing to find that so many of the great Romans should have lived during one single century. Most significant to mark also that this brilliant period immediately preceded our Christian era.

Great as may be the justification for scholars and lovers of literature to celebrate this amazing Roman century, during which Horace wrote, it would seem that there is a similar justification for farmers and institutes of agricultural science to celebrate as well, for included among the fourteen illustrious Romans cited were three who sang and wrote immortal verse and prose on agriculture.

Virgil, whose Georgics is considered to be the greatest poem on agriculture ever penned; Varro, who wrote the earliest scientific book on practical farming; and Ovid who tells us of the plants, herbs, shrubs and trees of those days.

The Roman mind of that period was pre-eminently practical, and the people then loved and revered agriculture, which they considered, above all other occupations, to be the most honorable.

During the one hundred years in question, Rome extended her boundaries over many parts of the then known world, and carried, with her conquering legions, law, order, good government and good agriculture, which virtues have persisted in those countries until to-day, two thousand years afterwards.

The education of the Roman boys and girls of the period was designed to fit them for farm life. Girls were taught to manage a home, to spin and to weave; boys to plow, sow, reap, and to manage the business affairs of the farm, and, as well, to know how to conduct the various offices of the state, including the very highest, for farmers, above all others, were chosen to fill these exalted positions.

The character of the young people was moulded so as to develop a respect for parental authority and for law and order. They were taught to be modest in speech, discreet in behaviour, and as well to be thrifty and self-reliant.

Virgil and Varro, and other Romans of the period, tell us of these things, and they set out simple principles of good farming which are as sound to-day as they were then. Of the value of the production of varieties of crops and of breeds of livestock which were suited to the district. Of the use of good, pure seed, and of good, well-bred sires. Of the virtues of good plowing and cultivation. Of the necessity of eliminating all weeds. Of detailed methods of conducting efficiently every operation of the farm. They also instruct us in the care of plants, animals, and the equipment of the farm, and in the proper consideration of the people employed. Of the profitable employment of every hour in the working day including rainy days, and of the elimination of idleness.

Above all, these great writers enjoin us to consider the pleasure of farming to be a reward commensurate with material gain.—Searle Grain Co. Bulletin.

How Royalty Makes Tea

King George Has Own Recipes For Cold Beverage

During a royal "shoot" at Sandringham, a member of the party pulled out a flask and took a drink. The King noticed the action and asked what beverage it was that gave him so much satisfaction. "Cold tea, sir," was the reply. The King smiled, saying: "But it is not made the right way, I am sure." "Oh, yes sir, I think it is," said the other, "poured off the leaves and allowed to get cold."

"That's not the way," said the King. "My way is the only really good way of making cold tea. It must be made with cold water."

Of course, there was a respectful outburst of dissent, but the King stuck to his point and there and then told them how to make "royal tea", and here is the recipe:

Take the ordinary quantity of tea—a teaspoonful for each person and one for the pot—put it in a jug, and pour in as much cold water as you require. Then allow the mixture to stand for 12 hours, pour it off the tea leaves, and add milk and sugar according to taste and the result is cold tea fit for a king. It is this tea that the King always carries with him on shooting or fishing expeditions.

The King shares with most Englishmen the habit of taking the odd cup of tea at any time of the day or night. But the head of the House of Windsor goes further than the average Englishman inasmuch as he has facilities for making tea installed in his dressing room, ready for any emergencies or for wakeful hours.

No direct descendants of George Washington are living.

Correspondence.

Editor Pioneer

As it was rather difficult to discuss the affairs of the town with the Council at the annual meeting, I would ask you to kindly permit me to do so through the columns of your paper.

The 1934 statement shows the following:

Cash on hand, Dec. 1934, about $20,000.00.

Uncollected tax, about $20,000.

Tax levy 1935, about $22,700.00.

Following are the criticisms I wish to make: During the year we find the council restored the pay of the town employees to the former "bounteous" level.

They spent about $2,600.00 on streets and sidewalks; about $500.00 on purchase and planting of trees;
also a liberal handout was made to various organizations.

I am satisfied that the council would have been more economical if there had not been such a huge accumulation of cash on hand at the beginning of the year.

How do matters stand Jan 1, '36.
Cash on hand, about $18,000.00
Uncollected taxes, about $21,000.00

Owing to the large carryover of cash from year to year, there naturally is little effort made to collect arrears of taxes. I believe if a reasonable effort was made to collect some of these arrears, there would be sufficient cash to carry us over the year 1936 with about fifty per cent of the usual amount levied.
This would give those who have carried this heavy burden the last few years a much needed breathing spell. They are entitled to some consideration.

Alberta Dairy Products for 1935.

Dairy products valued at $14,- 252,500 were produced by Albertans during 1935, a decrease about $10,000 compared with value of products for 1934. J. K.
Sweeney, provincial dairy commissioner, stated in his annual report which was presented in the legislature Tuesday afternoon.

No less than 23,225,000 pounds of creamery butter valued at $4,554,- 100 produced in 1935, while 13,000,- 000 pounds of home dairy butter, valued at $1,950,000 was also produced. There was a good demand for factory cheese, 1,495,000 pounds valued at $162,057 being disposed of.

The report also indicated that Albertans like their ice cream, 359,833 pounds of this confection having been sold during the year, the yield being $415,833.

Milk and cream either sold or fed to animals on the farms was estimated to have had a value of $7,150,010.

A decrease of about $280,000 in value of creamery butter produced in 1935 compared with 1934 was also in the report.

Province's Wheat Harvest Yields 105,200,000 Bushels

Alberta harvested 105,200,000 bushels of wheat; 94,611,000 bushels of oats, 18,860,000 bushels of barley, and 2,244,000 bushels of rye during 1935, O. S. Longman, the provincial field crops commissioner, stated in his annual report tabled in the legislature by the Hon. W. N.
Chant, minister of agriculture.

Alberta also produced 160,000 pounds of alfalfa seed, 130,000 tons of sugar beets, 465,000 tons of hay and clover, and 118,000 bushels of flax.

Acres sown in wheat totalled
7,500,000; 3,102,000 in oats; 920,- 000 in barley; 14,100 in sugar beet; 295,000 in hay and clover, and 19,400 in flax.

The report stated that the 1935 crop season proved to be a serious disappointment to farmers of the province. A late spring accompanied by an ample rainfall gave promise of a very heavy production of cereal and forage crops throughout the whole province.

During the summer, however,
certain areas in the prairie section became seriously affected by drought and grasshoppers, with the resulting crop yields greatly reduced.

Just as we go to press we learn that W. C. Gooder's house at Ous-bunt down early this morning, the family escaping in their night attire.

Weekly News Letter

from Edmonton.

BY T. B. WINDROSS

EDMONTON.—Press Gallery.—The big news during the week has been the opening of the 18th Legislature of Alberta, and while the daily newspapers have carried very complete stories of this important event, there are thousands of readers of weekly newspapers who never see a daily, or only seldom, and so it would be difficult to write a summary of the news without referring to it.

Dignity, decorum and impressiveness were the outstanding characteristics of the sessional opening ceremonies. Seldom, if ever, has this picturesque event been so full of solemnity. Despite the fact that the period of mourning for the death of His Late Majesty, King George V., made the ceremonies take a sombre tone, there was plenty of interest.

While cannon boomed their 15-gun salute to the king's representative, His Honor, Lieut.-Governor W. L. Walsh, the proceedings began. Bitter below-zero weather made it advisable for the military display to be held inside the big rotunda of the legislative buildings, where the guard-of-honor, 80 strong, lined two sides of the floor, in two lines of scarlet and khaki against the background of marble pillars and floral decorations.

In the crowded chamber itself, where every inch of space was occupied, the usual attendance of guest-spectators on the main floor wore sombre black instead of the customary brilliant colors in costumes. Only the red tunics of the R.C.M.P. officers gave a splash of color to the scene.

Members of the legislature wore black ties and dark suits, and the proceedings were a bit unusual because of changes necessitated by the demise of the crown. The election of a new speaker also gave a touch of novelty to the occasion. For N. E. Tanner, M.L.A., was the government choice and after his election took the new chair on the dais. The only failure in the program was that the speaker's new uniform had not arrived from the English makers who made it. He had to wear a substitute robe provided by a judge of the supreme court. The unfortunate gown arrived Saturday—but without the pants, and a hurried order had to be sent to a local tailor for a pair to be ready for Monday.

Friday the legislature took up its regular work with the first shot being fired in the debate on the speech from the throne, which the lieutenant-governor read Thursday afternoon. Two fine speeches were made by Rev. Roy Taylor, M.L.A., of Poncha Creek, and Mrs. Edith Rogers, of Ponoka, who defeated former premier J. E. Brownlee in the election.

These speeches in moving and seconding the reply to the throne speech were well above the average of such efforts and won enthusiastic applause from all sides of the house. Following Mrs. Rogers, W. R. Howson, Liberal leader, took up the cudgels in the first attack of the Social Credit government this session.

He demanded that the promises made in the election by Premier Aberhart be implemented during the session, or else the resignation of the government should be presented to the lieutenant-governor. He declared that not a single member of the government party believed the promised basic dividends of $25.00 monthly would be paid during this session.

Tactics of the opposition became clear with Mr. Howson's speech. He only spoke about twenty minutes and it is said that D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader, who is expected to speak later, will only occupy a few minutes also.

Social Crediters, who protested smilingly against Mr. Howson's challenge to bring on the Social Credit legislation, and if it would not increase taxation and add to the public debt, the Liberals would support it, pointed out that Mr. Howson say it is of course impossible to pay dividends until the needed legislation is on the statute books, and it is impossible to put it there until the legislature has met.

The speech from the throne promised a measure leading to the establishment of Social Credit would be introduced to the legislature.

The legislature passed a loyal address to His Majesty King Edward VIII., who "occupies a special place in the affections of the people of Alberta by reason of his residence in this province," Premier Aberhart said. The resolution was seconded by Liberal Leader Howson and supported by D. M. Duggan, Conservative leader. The house voted on it standing.

On Friday eighteen bills were introduced by the government covering a wide range of legislation, most of them being amendments to existing statutes. This indicates that the government means to get its business over with as little unnecessary delay as possible. It is expected that the budget will be ready to be brought down within two weeks.

Last session the house discussed the throne speech for three weeks and the budget for two weeks. This will serve as a hint of how the present government is bent on wasting no time. Of course the flood gates of oratory have scarcely been opened a small bit yet, and when the enthusiastic members get going the government may not be able to scotch the flow.

The session is proceeding all this week, with the usual recess on Wednesday, and it promises to be the most interesting one Alberta has seen. It is unique in being the only Social Credit Legislature in the world. There is wide interest in its doings in the United States and Great Britain.

It is impossible to mention all the things that happened in connection with the big event of the week in a short article, but next week there will doubtless be a variety of interest in this news story.

Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping
Losing Their "Grip" on Things

Many people 'round 40 think they're "growing old." They feel tired a lot... "weak." Have headaches, dizziness, stomach upsets.

Well, scientists say the cause of all this, in a great many cases, is simply an acid condition of the stomach. Nothing more.

All you have to do is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals and before going to bed. That's all!

All Alberta lawyers appointed as "king's counsel" will be charged $100 for letters patent, instead of $25 as in the past, Premier Aberhart announced.

Inspired by advance notices of the golden jubilee celebration in Vancouver from May 24 to September 7, Edmonton businessmen are planning to organize a special train for a visit.

Hon. Raymond Brugere, French minister to Canada, announced building operations would commence in Ottawa next spring on a new legation and minister's residence to cost $308,000.

Eye To See In Dark

Vacuum Tube Shows Scene As Sharp As Visible Light

Science has given man an eye to see in the dark—a foot-long vacuum tube on which the invisible infra-red and ultra-violet rays that fill the air form a visible, living, moving, continuous image.

The new tube was shown for the first time at a general meeting in St. Louis of the American Association for the Advancement of Science by its discoverers and inventors, Dr. V. K. Zworykin and Dr. George Morton of the Radio Corporation of America laboratories.

The scene revealed by the vision tube is greenish-black and white, without other colors. But it is as sharp and distinct as visible light.

Many practical applications appear to be immediately realizable. An airplane with such a telescope could guide itself into a secret landing field by an infra-red, or black light, beacon so dark as to be invisible to persons near it on the field.

A plebiscite is a form of voting introduced in France under the Napoleonic regime by which the whole body of voters ratified or refused to ratify a legislative enactment.

Matter Still Undecided

Emblem For Province Of Saskatchewan Hard To Find

The black-eyed susan and the tiger lily, the waxwing, the chickadee, the grouse and the wild goose, were all advocated before a meeting of the Regina Natural History Society as flowers and birds emblematic of Saskatchewan. But the society left the matter over.

Ald. J. H. Taylor, president, pointed out that the society wasn't trying to have the emblem adopted as its own suggestion but aimed to interest other organizations, the Horticultural Society and the Fish and Game Society. A Saskatchewan emblem would then be pressed for before the legislature.

Prof. H. Schmidt, representing the Regina Horticultural Society, stated that organization had adopted the prairie rose as its emblem until it was found that Alberta already had the flower.

Mr. Taylor, noting that a newspaper correspondent had urged the grasshopper and dandelion be put in the emblem, termed the man a "horror culturist, not a horticulturist."

Kindness Was Rewarded

Woman Receives $1,000 Legacy For Befriending Stranger

A few minutes' hospitality and a little kindness shown by a Prince Edward Island woman to a stranger 36 years ago has been remembered by a bequest of $1,000 specified in the will of the recipient of the kindness. The legacy was bequeathed to Mrs. Reuben Cate, a native of Summerside, by Miss Grace Fletcher Kelly, 80-year-old eccentric Boston recluse, who died in that city recently.

In 1900, Miss Kelly was in East Concord attending the funeral of her sister, which was being held in a cemetery directly adjoining the lot on which stood Mrs. Cate's home. After the service Mrs. Cate noticed Miss Kelly standing, overcome with grief, beside the grave. Although she was a stranger, Mrs. Cate went to the graveyard and invited the Boston woman "to come in and rest and have a cup of tea."

Miss Kelly accepted the invitation, and said on leaving: "I'll never forget you for this."

Tamed A Canadian Goose

American Boys Find And Befriend Exhausted Fowl On Southern Flight

Emil Bures' sons found a wild Canadian goose in their field in Ganado, Texas, last year, exhausted by the long flight from the North. The boys adopted the goose.

But the following spring a flock of wild geese went north and the Bures pet took to the air with them.

This year a flock again passed over this village. A lone gander dropped out of the sky and came to rest among the Bures chickens, tame as ever before.

Olympic Preparations

Special Mirror Arrangement Enables Newspapermen To View Whole Course

Careful preparations are being made to assure the best facilities for press representatives attending the Fourth Olympic Winter Games which are to take place at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, from Feb. 6 to 16, 1936.

On the judges' tower at the great Olympic ski-jump, for instance, a mirror has been erected to enable journalists to "see round the corner" and so follow the whole course of the skiing.

An ingenious device has been invented by the stadium director to protect the pressmen's typewriters in the open air, namely a glass case to slip over each machine, saving it from exposure to any fall of snow but leaving enough space for the pressman to slip his hands in and work the machine under glass!

Forty-four new telephone lines have been installed at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, enabling two thousand long distance telephone calls and telegraph messages to be put through from there daily.

London's Famous Tower Bridge

Has Worked Perfectly Since It Was Opened In 1894

One of the monuments of engineering skill in Europe is the famous Tower Bridge spanning the River Thames in London. For years it has worked so perfectly that the triumph of the designers is more and more respected. It was opened in 1894 to relieve the enormous strain of traffic over London Bridge. The roadway lifts so easily and so quickly very few inconveniences are entailed on the arteries to connect two parts of London. It costs 25 dollars every time the bridge opens. The bascules of Tower Bridge were raised 4,989 times during the twelve-month ended March 31st last. The largest number of lifts in any one day was 36. Vessels passing through the bridge numbered 5,352; and the bridge tug required to be kept in attendance to assist craft was used 2,507 times.

The Man Who Knows

Whether the Remedy You are taking for Headaches, Neuralgia or Rheumatism Pains is SAFE is Your Doctor. Ask Him

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with "Aspirin."

We say this because, before the discovery of "Aspirin," most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of "Aspirin" largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken "Aspirin" year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: "Aspirin" is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

"Aspirin" Tablets are made in Canada. "Aspirin" is the registered trade-mark of the Bayer Company, Limited. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every tablet.

Both men froze at the ringing command from Sheriff Ames Stephen. "We had enough gun-talk 't'other day," he remarked coldly. "What's the matter here, can't you men get along?"

"He called me a liar," Roper growled.

"He did distort the truth a bit, according to my views, Helen," Link went on directly, "are you heading out to the ranch?"

"Why—uh, I'd sort of planned going that way, Helen," Kilgo interposed, rubbing his jaw.

She hesitated while the three men watched her. "Why yes, but there's something important I want to talk to Link about."

His face lighted slowly with a knowing grin. "Shore, I savvy! I'll come over tonight and have a good talk. Remember what I told yuh, Helen—"

"About trying to buy me out so as to protect her from my bad influence?" Link grinned. "That's stretching the truth too, Roper. There was a queer shooting scrape at my place that night—" "Shootin'?" Helen exclaimed. "Nobody told me about it!" Ames Stephen growled.

"Probly some guy ridin' home drunk. Nobody got hurt."

Fleming turned to him and bowed. "Thanks to poor marksmanship. Better get someone else next time, Roper."

He bristled again. "Are you tryin' to make out I put some guy up to that?"

Helen darted between the men, both of them rising to hot anger again. "Stop! Why, Link, whatever possessed you? I've known Roper for years and I know he wouldn't have anything to do with an attempted murder. That is too much, altogether too much. Whatever you think of him, it's foolish to call a man a killer when you haven't the slightest proof. I—why, Link, I'm surprised at you!"

He stepped back in dismay. The suddenness of her defense of Kilgo brought a look of perplexity to the rancher's rather handsome face. Fleming avoided her accusing eyes. Seemingly he had overstepped himself. The heightening sense of trouble brewing, with Roper as his chief antagonist had, perhaps, caused him to be indiscreet.

"Aw, Link, let's forget it. Come on, what do yuh say?" The other shuffled forward wearing a forced smile of friendliness. One hand was thrust out in the pretense of forgiving. Link eyed him an instant. Then his lids lowered and his voice sounded cold and controlled.

"That's just a grandstand play, and you know it. There's no friendship between us!"

He turned on his heel and started off. But with a gasp Helen scurried after and seized his sleeve. "Link, please! Why not be friends? If you won't," she hinted with color draining from her cheeks, "I—I'm afraid you will have made a choice. Roper is a good friend of Buzz, and he has known Buzz and me longer than—than you have. I mean, well—almost anyone who is a man is willing to forgive and forget. Are you trying to make trouble?"

He hesitated, unwilling to pretend comradeship for one whose face and words were a mere mask of his true feelings. But Helen's meaning was clear: she was insistent upon this handshake to restore peace. Perhaps she felt it her duty to bring them together on a new basis. Roper considered himself practically engaged to her. What was her real feeling about that?

A partnership in irrigation could not be successful unless there was harmony between them. And—Link's pulse sped faster—wasn't that genuine concern in the girl's eyes, concern for his well-being if he had an influential enemy in Kilgo?

He despised himself for doing it, yet felt he must. Sheriff Stephen watched the tableau in silence. Fleming raised his hand, pressed Roper's briefly, then turned away.

"Shall we start now?" he asked in a low tone.

As they rode off Link had an uncomfortable suspicion that somehow Kilgo had bested him in the scene. He cast a sidelong glance at Helen and found her uncommunicative. When they reached Rawhide and were walking their horses down its main street Otto Pieper emerged from his bank. He sighted the girl and beckoned.

"I'm sorry, but I forgot I'll have to stop and talk to Mr. Pieper. You see, I want to find out just what the condition of the Triple H is, how much money we have and all that."

He considered offering to wait, but felt instinctively that she might prefer to go on alone—or to have Roper, who rode with several other men a half mile behind, escort her home.

"By the way," Link said, drawing his buckskin near as she dismounted before the bank. "I don't want to press you about this irrigation business, but I'm wonderin' if you really want to come in with me. Maybe you'd like to think it over real careful, now Kil—er, folks are so set against it."

She tied her pony, then smiled at him from the sidewalk. "I've decided to go into it. And I never back out of a thing, Link."

His heart leaped. It was true that Triple H land adjoining his Star Loop spread would benefit the most, was the local outfit to club with him for the erection of a dam to back up

WHY SHOULDN'T I BE? MY HEADACHES AND INDIGESTION HAVE DISAPPEARED, I'M SLEEPING LIKE A TOP, AND I FEEL SO GOOD I COULDN'T BE CROSS.

30 DAYS LATER

MANY PEOPLE, of course, can safely drink tea and coffee. But there are thousands and thousands of others who cannot. And, without realizing it, you may be one of these.

The caffeine found in both tea and coffee may be working night and day to rob you of sleep, upset your digestion, or undermine your nervous system.

If you suspect that tea and coffee disagree with you... switch to POSTUM for 30 days. Postum is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It is a delicious drink—and contains nothing that can possibly harm you. It is economical and easy to prepare.

Silver Creek.

"When can we get down to bed rock on this proposition?" he asked. "The thing should be started now so's we'd get an alfalfa crop early next summer. If we wait till spring it'll be that much longer for a return."

She hesitated, then spoke what was on her mind. "Link, I didn't want you to have more trouble with Roper—that's why I asked you to shake hands with him. I came with you now to say that. Perhaps you don't like him, but after all, he is a friend of mine."

He flushed and made no reply. "But I'll tell him not to come to the ranch to-night. You come, Link, and we'll talk over all our plans for irrigation. Why not come early, for supper?"

The Box 50 owner, Benson and Sheriff Stephen were dismounting a few yards away. Fleming felt certain Kilgo had heard Helen's invitation. He could not restrain a thrill of triumph. "Fine, I'll sure be there!" Turning his mount, he started at a brisk run for the Star Loop.

Pieper, he knew, would attempt to talk her out of participating in what the conservative banker now regarded as a "wildcat" scheme. Otto's habit was to believe what the majority of local citizens believed; he had discovered long ago that such a policy kept him in the good graces of influential men who might otherwise have ousted him from the bank presidency. Link hoped that Helen would not state her intention to Otto. As for Kilgo, he felt certain now the man could not persuade her out of the partnership.

Hard Year For Trappers

Fur Catch Lower Than Last Season Which Was Poor

That some system of relief for Indians and trappers operating in northern Saskatchewan furlands will be essential unless trapping of beaver is made legal in the spring was the note sounded in reports of hardship brought to civilization with Pilot Angus Campbell of the M. and C. Aviation Company.

With the fur catch estimated as between one-third and one-quarter of last winter, in itself considered a poor year, trappers are facing difficulties hitherto unencountered, he said.

Consider the Cow

If your advt. were in this space as many people would read it as are reading this. But your advt. isn't here, and people do not worry whether you are selling real estate, gasoline, peanuts or popcorn.

Did you ever sit down in the pasture with a pail between your knees and wait for a cow to back up and be milked?

Of course not. You know better than that.

Well, business is somewhat like a cow. You've got to go out after it and round it up. The fellow with the milk pail between his knees may get some milk, but the odds are all in favor of the fellow who drives up the cow and feeds her.

Some kind of advertising must be done if business is to amount to anything. Either walking and talking or writing, or printing. But the least costly, most profitable and dignified way is by the regular newspaper — people pay for it. They value it and have faith in the advertisements in it.
